Business Men's Association State

J. Arthur Allen Elected President-Each Local to Prepare List of Delinquent Creditors.

One of the important sections of the annual meeting of the Connecticut Business Men's association in its annual meeting at Bridgeport, Thursday, was the adoption of a resolution that was the adoption prepare and file in their own hands. There are certain rules of fair dealing, to be observed by both, that the general common law of the land lays down.

These they generally find no trouble in the connection of the land lays down. was the adoption of a resolution that each local association prepare and file with the state association a list of delinquent debtors for the use of all members. One delegate from New London declared that his one purpose members. One delegate from New London declared that his one purpose in joining the association was to urge the preparation of such a list. The resolution went through unanimously. About 200 delegates were present when the meeting was called to order Thursday morning by President Andrew R, Jones of Danbury. Marked enthusiasm prevailed.

The report of Treasurer R. Lamotte Russell of South Manchester showed a net balance in the treasury of $2,201.17 after providing for the payment of all bills.

The convention referred to the legislative committee a resolution asking for a stronger itinerant, vendor law. Another resolution adopted recommended the study and discussion of the commission form of government by local associations. New London was favored in another resolution for the next convention of the National Deep Waterways congress.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, J. Arthur Allen, New London, first vice president, Samuel E.

President, J. Arthur Allen, New London; first vice-president, Samuel E. Vincent, Bridgeport.
A striking incident of the morning session was the presentation to Norman F. Allen, of Hartford, of an eight foot high mahogany "grandfather's clock," suitably inscribed, for his work as chairman of the association.

Governor Baldwin Spoke. Other officers elected were: Treas-urer, R. L. Russell, South Manches-ter: secretary, S. S. Valentine. The day's sessions were brought to a close by an address by Governor Baldwin, who spoke as follows:

It is the office of this association to watch over the business of Connecticut. That has been, for the last year or two, in an unsettled state. It all hinges on the conditions control-ing our manufacturing industries. To carry them on successfully, two sets of people have to co-operate in a friendly spirit: the set that build the factory and keep it going, and the set they employ to do the hand-work. Very often the first set is the larger one. A manufacturing company that employs 20 hands may have 40 shareholders. Often the same man belongs to both sets. He works in the shop, but has laid up enough to buy some of the company's shares, and draws both wages and dividends from the common fund out of which both must come. I say must come, for the wages stop of the factory is shut down, and no factory will be kept running long, if there is no hope of carry them on successfully, two sets down, and no factory will be ke running long, if there is no hope earning dividends.

Rules Of Fair Dealing. But these two sets of people have vaudeville bill of three turns that sparkle with music and wit was put on Thursday at the Auditorium for the on Intrisual at the Auditorium for the balance of the week to the delight of well filled houses. Philip Jean Bar-nard, The Man in White, opens the show with a musical number that dis-plays his lyric tenor voice and his plays his lyric tenor voice and his pleasing command of negro dialect in song and monologue, for which he springs into instant favor. Kresco & Fox, who call themselves the Pattering Pals, follow with a rapid-fire interchange of wit and song which gets the house, and the bill concludes with Wohlrab, White and Shers, a lively and tuneful singing and dancing trio, something nice in their line and get a correspondingly good nand. In the motion pictures, as is to be expected at this house, there is a pleasing choice of interesting and well acfed pictures. acted pictures.

There is, however, another kind of law that does not always work so smoothly. It is the law that Congress makes our own legislature at Hart-ford makes. We call it statute law. It brings results often that nobody anticipated.

The Sherman Act has brought about results that nobody anticopated. Sherman Act Not Plain.

A statute ought to be so plain that a lawyer at least, can tell what it means. The Sherman Act is not of that kind. I presume that it has al-ready cost over $2,000,000 to find out from the courts just what it forbids. They have been slow in telling us, but within the last year they have told us that it does not forbid a reasonable re-striction of trade or production. This is what the common law provided; but the United States have not got any common law, and so they thought best to pass this statute.

It gives a tremendous power to the President of the United States. He can direct a prosecution, and he can prohibit a prosecution. He can do both prohibit a prosecution. He can do both one after the other.

I was giad to see that the biggest concern in the United States. The United States Steel company, recently, when threatened with prosecution under the Sherman Act, declared that they could and should plead not guilty. If they were sued and fight it out and win it will be the turning point in 20th century business conditions.

Need More Manufacturing Capital.

Need More Manufacturing Capital. We want more manufacturing capi-tal in Connecticut. It will give our people more work and better wages. I say, let us throw no unnecessary ob-stacles in the way of varrying on our large concerns and bringing in more such. Let us not encourage Congress to create any more such obstacles. Let the states manage their own concerns. Let us have business peace, as the rule, and business disturbance by leg-islative and judicial action, as the exception. That way lies the prosperity of Connecticut, and of her business

Norwich Delegates.

There were present the members of the state public utilities commission. A feature was the songs and stories by the Scotch comedian Harry Lauder. The Norwich delegates whe attended were Charles I.
